Dirge for One Who Fell in Battle

By THOMAS WILLIAM PARSONS.

OOM for a soldier! Lay him in the clover; He loved the fields, and they shall be his cover; Make his mound with hers who called him once her lover, Where the san may sain upon it,
Where the sun may shine upon it,
Where the lamb hath lain upon it, And the bee will dine upon it.

Bear him to no dismal tomb under city churches; Take him to the fragrant fields, by the silver birches,
Whore the whippoorwill shall mourn, where the oriole perches.
Make his mound with sunshine on it, Where the bee will dine upon it, Where the lamb hath lain upon it, And the rain will rain upon it.

Busy as the bee was he, and his rest should be the clover; Gentle as the lamb was he, and the fern should be his cover; Fern and rosemary shall grow my soldler's pillow over;
Where the rain may rain upon it,
Where the sun may shine upon it, Where the lamb hath lain upon it, And the bee will dine upon it.

Sunshine in his heart, the rain would come full often.
Out of those tender eyes which evermore did soften;
He never could look cold till we saw him in his coffin.
Make his mound with sunshine on it,
Plant the lordly pine upon it,
Where the moon may stream upon it,

"Captain or colonel"—whatever invocation Suit our hymn the best, no matter for thy station— On thy grave the rain shall fall from the eyes of a mighty nation! Long as the sun doth shine upon it Shall glow the goodly pine upon it; Long as the stars do gleam upon it Shall memory come to dream upon it. This series began in The Times-Dispatch Sunday, Oct. 11, 1903. One is published each day.

Illicit Whiskey Traffic,

Attorney-General William A. Anderson is in receipt of a letter from a citizen of the mountain counties of Southern Virginia, in which the writer states that local fillioit whiskey traffic has attained great proportions, and that country salons are run almost as openly as those licensed in any city. "I saw yone moonshiner," says the correspondent, "take possession of a schoolhouse, and from there advirtuse his ware's and sell out his load in the daytime."

Judging from the letter, it would seem that the officers of the law are totally indifferent to the consequent bad effects upon education and morality.

It is understood that the new steel passenger cars designed by the Pressed Steel Car Company have turned out a success. The railway that has tested them is wed satisfied with the results attained. It is believed in advanced railroad circles that the day of the steel passenger car has come. Recently the New York Central's solid vestibuled train was in collision with another train near Buffalo. B. F. Yoakum, prominent in the Rock Island-Frisco system, who was on the vestibuled train, said that it was the best train week he ever saw or licitral of. Not a passenger was hurt and the train was brought into New York only three hours late. The steel passenger car will, among other things, reduce damages from collisions to a minimum. The demand for freight equipment continues active. All of the carbilleling companies are now booked ahead up to 1907.

The General Electric Company proposes to construct an American canal between Lakes Erie and Ontario, commencing above Ningara Falls and ending at Lewiston, a distance of about nine miles. As proposed, the canal will be twenty-five feet deep and 200 feet wide, having a fall of 330 feet, and carrying 17,000 cubic feet of water per second. The projectors argue that the entire volume of water at the falls on both sides is 224,000 cubic feet per second, of which 87 per cent. now goes over the Canadian side; but they propose to change this by blasting out a shelf of rock near the head of Goat Island, whereby they claim 40 per cent. of the water now flowing on the Canadian side will be diverted to the American side, and without any material injury to the appearance of the Canadian falls.

W. E. Mingea, president and general manager of the Virginia-Carolina and Southern, Abingdon, Va., writes that this road is under construction from Taylor's Valley, Va., along White Top Creek to Azen P. O., where the Hassinger Lumber Company is building a large plant. The line from Azen along Green Cove Creek and over the divide to Horse Creek is being surveyed. It is the intention ultimately to extend this line down Horse Creek into Ashe county, N. C., but when this will be done cannot be definitely stated at present.

"LAWRENCEVILLE, VA., June 20.—
State Superintendent J. D. Eggleston, Jr., was in Lawrenceville vesterday to meet the school trustees of the town and to talk with the board of supervisors of the county with regard to raising the district levy for schools. Lawrenceville has raised its school tax to 4 cents, and is now erecting a handsome brick building to cost $10,000.

Superintendent Eggleston has approved the location and plans, and said to-day that the five-acre lot on which the school is to be situated is one of the most beautiful in the State. The new building will be in a grove of noble old oaks, commanding a fine view.

Five teachers are to be employed, and the children will have the advantages of classes graded from the primary through the high school act and the Williams building set passed by the last General Assembly. School Inspector Willis A. Jenkins pald two visits here and addressed the citizens several months ago, arousing great interest.

several months ago, arousing great interest.

In his talk to the supervisors to-day Mr. Eggleston urged the board to increase the district levy to at least 15 cents, in order to build better schoolhouses in the country districts. Many of the buildings are now very inadequate.

If a stated that school levies are being raised in all sections of the States, some of the countries and districts having a combined levy of 50 cents. The country levy here is 15 cents, the highest district.

It is believed that the increase will be made in most, if not all, of the districts.
